Bonanza's Birth Notice.

The Virginia Enterprise of a recent date has the following:

March 2, 1873, we published in the columns of the Enterprise the following item, which may be called the birth of the "Big Bonanza: "Under the able superintendence of Captain Sam Curtis this mine is beginning to yield paying ore. They commenced hoisting ore night before last. It is raised through the north compartment of the Gould and Curry shaft, and with two men extracting they are able to take out twenty-five tons per twenty-four hours. The main ore body is now twelve feet in width. They first struck the vein at a point 178 feet north of the north line of the Best and Belcher ground, where it was seven feet in width, and have now followed it a distance of 275 feet, being within 300 feet of their own shaft. This is at the depth of 1167 feet from the surface, and corresponds to what is known as the 1200-foot level or seventh station of the Gould and Curry mine. Besides the deposit we have mentioned two other ore bodies have been developed, one to the eastward and one to the westward of the main drift. That on the west side is seven and a half feet wide, and assays on the average $60 per ton. The east vein has not been followed, but it contains good milling ore, and is eight feet in width. The company expect to shortly begin taking out ore at the rate of fifty tons per day, which will be worked at the Mariposa mill. Their own shaft is now down 710 feet, and is being sunk at the rate of three feet per day. Until the connection is made between their shaft and the drift they will do all their hoisting through the Gould and Curry shaft, the Gould and Curry company having contracted to do this work for them. The Consolidated is now in a fair way to take its place among the paying mines of the Comstock." And it did take its place among the paying mines of the Comstock. Had we known on that March morning what has since come to light, how many of us might have had a slice of the bonanza.

One of our fashionable club rooms Saturday evening was honored with the presence of a lady who prolonged her stay until she wore her welcome out. It was one of those incidents so common, where the wife, weary of watching and waiting for the return of her husband, sallies forth to determine his whereabouts. She found him engaged in an exciting contest with the royal beast, and her entree, far from decomposing him, only prolonged the fight. For two mortal hours he sat, coppering, calling and playing his system, while the lady, who came to scold and upbraid, remained to witness the encounter, and I was seemingly as much absorded in the game as her husband. Whether he won or lost we did not learn, but the sitting finally broke up, and the couple left for their supposed peaceful and pleasant residence.—Eureka Sentinel.

BYRON'S LAST MOT.—The latest mot of Byron is quite in the vein of that sparkling conversationist. Some years ago he was the lessee of the Theatre Royal. The speculation resulted in a serious loss from first to last. One day he was told that his leading lady was so ill that she had "to take cod-liver oil." "I wish," said Byron, bitterly, "she had to take the Theater 'oyal!"—London Letter

There is an old coin-collector in Ohio who claims to be the only original Artemus Ward, and contemptuously regards Charles F. Browne as an imitator. But somehow the old coin-collector has not given the world any of those inimitable stories with which Artemus Ward's name was associated since Browne died.

The Sacramento Savings Bank has issued notice that it will no longer receive interest-paying deposits, because of the accumulation of money in its vaults faster than it can be let on first-class real estate security.

The Paris exhibition is to be additionally enlivened by a dog show, giving all types, families and nationalities.

THE NEW RULE.

"If you desire to always be poor, and to have no bank account except your self-respect, strain to be a just, truthful and upright man; but if you would succeed in politics, be a demagogue, smile on the loafer, patronize the arrogant, be a flunkey for the rich, and be profuse in promises. If you would succeed in business take all reasonable advantages; look out always for number one; make for your friends the men of money, no matter how they obtain it, and do not permit any merciful impulse to ever betray you into doing a generous act."

The Enterprise said this yesterday at the end of an article upon "High Character." In other words, from a review of the facts in the case, the above rule was deducted. Every man loves to succeed, and enjoy the service and perhaps envy of his fellows. That is well. If he would be rich, he must have from $5,000,000 to $50,000,000 if he would gain political success he must be an apt servant and tool of the wealth which he does not possess. This is not well. The accumulation of $50,000,000 during an ordinary lifetime, and the maintenance of honesty, are entire inconsistent and impossible. The political success of an honest man is equally impossible, unless his virtue be of the order which is easy of conviction. These are facts of the present day and will not admit of contradiction. They commence in villainy which is natural to men who possess great wealth and great ignorance at the same time. Such a state of affairs is made possible only by the fact that we tolerate flunkeys instead of honest men, and prefer the smiles of those who have the ear of capitals to the grasp of an upright man's hand. These vicious conditions will end when self-respect becomes the equal of notoriety, and when love of principal ceases to be subservient to worship of wealth. The old man looks back and is forced to acknowledge that had he been more unprincipled he would have been more successful. The middle aged man finds that half of a life has failed to vindicate the policy of honesty, and the young man who is ambitious, looks but a short time before he knows that ambition or virtue must be given up. The success aimed at is of course worldly, and he sees that the worldly alone succeed. And so the old man takes the boy aside to say, "my son, honesty is very expensive, I had left thee a handsome fortune had I been more economical upon that point," while the man of middle age resolves that to get gold, one must follow the Golden Rule, and he reads it carefully; "Do unto others as they would do unto you."

MAY FESTIVAL.

Preparations for the grand May Festival in San Francisco, May 20th, 29th and 30th, are completed and the seats are selling rapidly. An eastern paper says this of the principal artist engaged:

Miss Anna Drasdil, next on the programme, was greeted with hearty applause, for she is not a stranger in Baltimore, and sang, as she only can sing, the Prayer, by Hiller, commencing "Lord whom my inmost soul adoreth," closing amid a storm of applause. The lady has a magnificent contralo voice of surprising power, and sings with an ease and abandon that greatly aid in favorably impressing the author. She has certainly never been heard to greater advantage in Baltimore than at this concert. For several minutes she refused to respond to an encore, except with a "courtesy," but the audience had been aroused to too high a degree of enthusiasm to receive "No" for an answer, so the lady finally seated herself at the piano and sang to her own accompaniment, very touchingly and beautifully, but in a much more subdued tone.

Stealing has been discovered in another branch of the San Fraacisco government. The Board of Education has been looking after Mr. Duffy, the storekeeper of the Board, and finds that he has been converting property of the department to his own use to a considerable extent.

Three indictments of obtaining money under false pretenses, found against George M. Pinney in September, 1875, at San Francisco, have been dismissed.

THEY SAY.

—In the Carson Appeal that the election of Belknap in Virginia was not an indorsement of the Bradley family, because Mayor B. was a friend of the compromise and sought to secure Governor B's. John Tompkins thereto.

—In Carson that they have a "State and Ormsby County Agricultural Society." In other words, a bold bluff at the State society whose grounds and buildings are located in this county. The citizens of Carson ought to ask for the use of the capitol as a judge's stand. Even with that aid, however, the Carsonites will find that such an unfair spirit as they are trying to show will be expensive. Take off the word "State" from your title, gents.

—In Virginia, that the Justice is to be worked on the following plan: First—suspend further ore reduction, or only crush such ores as will yield sufficient profit to meet current expenses. Second—reduce the working force of the mine to eighty miners. Third—confine the work mainly to prospecting and opening up new levels. Sink the shaft with all possible haste and see what lies in the bottom of the mine.

—In the Chronicle that these are Comstock items:

A habitual liar would frequently tell the truth if he knew what an advantageous instrument of deception it would prove in his hands.

A rotten egg dropped in a glass of sherry makes the most effective disposition of a bummer.

Never go to extremes—A club, well handled, is often as good as a shotgun when a man comes into a newspaper office with spring poetry.

Trust not the deceptive circus poster, lest, like the promises of woman, the expectations they arouse turn out to be a white horses painted with brown stripes instead of a real zebra.

The way of the transgressor is hard—ly ever found out until he is a couple of thousand miles beyond the reach of the Sheriff.

The only thing obnoxious about vice is its inability to keep concealed.

Truth crushed to earth will rise again—when falsehood has fully accomplished its purpose and gets through sitting down on it.

Learn to accept situations gracefully—A reporter who rushes three blocks after a murder is frequently compelled to be content with a suicide, considering a half a loaf better than no bread.

In vino veritas—There is truth in wine—also logwood, citric acid, oil of almonds, resin, soda, fusel oil, and sometimes a slight sprinkling of grape juice.

—In the east that Eureka wants the State conventions, and ought to have them.

What Property is Taxable.

The State Controller has sent to the different County Assessors of this State the following instructions, defining what property may be taxed for State and county purposes:

All property in the State, not absolutely for public use, except mortgages, including the private property of fire and military companies, private school-houses, private hospitals, etc.; also, churches, chapels, and other buildings for religious worship, with their furniture and equipments; also, the property of Masons, Odd Fellows, and other benevolent and charitable institutions; also, all the property of widows, orphan children, etc. In fact, no property in the State is exempt from assessment and taxation, unless it is specifically mentioned in the law.

The Temps, commenting on the urgent summons to St. Petersburg of Carmany, who was a political diplomist before occupying his present post, says he is one of those Russians best acquainted with the Eastern question. He is on excellent terms with Count Schouvaloff, whose views on the present phase of the political situation he approves. We are assured that he was always opposed to those clauses of the San Stefano treaty which raised the strongest objections, and, with Prince Lobanoff, Russian Ambassador at Constantinople, Baron Somini and Count Schouvaloff, he will represent at the Russia Court the Civilization party in opposition to General Ignatieff, who represents the other party, and whose influence seems for some days to have materially diminished.

Superintendent Patterson, of the Coast Survey, has sent a communication to Congressman Davis, urging the necessity of a re-survey of San Pablo and Suisan bays.

A man named Michael McDermott beat his wife with a chair in San Francisco Thursday, from the effects of which she will probably die.

Jottings.

—A strong weekly—one which requires many puffs.

—A meeting of the Workingmen will be held at the Opera House this evening.

—A hotel beat—John Miller, of Humboldt. So says Gibson, proprietor of the Pollard House.

—Soon the moon will shine out out full and bright, and then croquet will become more popular.

—The Knights of Pythias will hereafter meet on Saturday evening instead of Friday, as heretofore.

—Said she: "What minister is that?" and as her lady companion looked up Alexander filed by on dress parade.

—Mr. Roker, superintendent of the the East Brooklyn mining company, returned last night from New York.

—Messrs. Elliott and Woodburn are James Harrington attorneys, and will appear as his counsel next Monday.

—The praise concert service at the Methodist church to-morrow evening, will be an exercise at once interesting, morally refining and instructive.

—Mr. S. Arnstien, of Wadsworth, in a few days will start for a three months' visit to Germany. He means, also, to take in the Paris Exposition.

SCHIVELEY FURNACE.—The Schiveley furnace will not start up before next Tuesday or Wednesday. The delay is caused by the lateness of the shipment of ore from the Montezuma mine, in Humboldt county. The stamps of the English mill will be used in crushing this ore. Our furnace friends have everything in readiness for business, save the ore which we have mentioned, and anticipate satisfactory results next week. So mote it be.

C. P. LUMBER CO.—From Mr. R. F. Hoy we learn that the Crystal Peak Lumber company will start up next Monday. They have recently made a favorable purchase of timber, and will in a few days be able to promptly fill all orders. Mr. Hoy says that there is much less lumber at the mill this year than at the same time last year, and, in consequence, lumber has advanced in prices.

Worthy of Thought.

Barney McClure, of Virginia City, is in town. He reports the Comstock fearfully dull, but thinks our little town quite a handsome place. 'Tis a common experience with those who now reside at the metropolis, and have once made their homes in Reno. Broad, level streets, and cozy homes surrounded by fruit and ornamental trees, flowering plants and shrubbery, and a fine stream of water running through the town, are always appreciated by visitors. Times are dull with us, but to fold our hands and allow the favoring hand of Nature to be vainly entended toward us, and we not appreciate nor accept her offerings. would be almost criminal laziness. Reno may, with some labor and a comparatively small expenditure of money, be made the San Jose of Nevada, the garden spot of this silver State. We generally look upon the improvement of our homes and the appearance of our town as matters of slight importance. Those who visit our town note our taste in such things. Crude material is essential, but those alone deserve credit who arrange this material into systematic form and artistic loveliness, as well as with regard to its subservance of the common purposes of use. Careful, artistic labor develops taste, skill, general improvement and an attraction to life. The spirit to make the best of one's resources and be content therewith, to increase and inprove upon the means fer gathering as much out of life and that which surrounds it, as well as compose its constituent elements, is the spirit which should ever be encouraged in society, as it is the positive factor of happiness and real success in life.

Meat Market.

The period of activity in the sale of beef cattle is now over, and, but few cattle will be sent from this State to California before next September. The grass is growing finely, but will not make rich and tender meat until it has somewhat matured, hence, we shall soon be compelled to eat tougher beef than usual, until about next August. Beef cattle are becoming scarce and as a consequence beef will advance in price.

Hogs and sheep are scarce already, and pork and mutton of a good quality find a ready sale in market. Some complaint has been made that many hogs in this valley are dying. They are fat and to all appearances are healthy, but get short of breath, pant a few minutes and suddenly fall over dead. We suspect that this is confined to few places and must result from some defect in feed. If such be the case this swine pest will only be of short duration. Most of the hogs for this market and Virginia city come from California. Beef cattle range from 5 to 7½ cents, hogs 6 to 7½, sheep 6 to 8 cents. The supply will probably meet the market demands, but we may not at least, look for a fall in prices.

Fight.

About 2 o'clock this afternoon the dull monotony on Virginia street was relieved by a little fisticuff between two honest laboring citizens. Plumb and George disagreed over the sum of three dollars. Plumb, who is a German, called George a fool, etc., and George smote him upon the cheek. They clinched, then broke loose and tried to strike each other, but George was too much for the Tueton and they clinched again. George Avery rushed over just in time to spoil our local and before the first round was over. The first word that Plumb said was, "If I had'nt dis three dollars in my hand—" Here Avery choked him off, and led both into the serene presence of Justice R. A short legal conversation followed, and both gentlemen were allowed their liberty, provided they would sin no more.

COUNTY SCRIP.—Those who hold county scrip will be interested in knowing that the County Auditor is paying certificates of indebtedness on the General Fund to and including No. 8397. So, gentlemen, look at your certificate, and if it is less than the above number, present it to Auditor J. B. Williams, and he will give you a warrant or order on the County Treasurer for the amount called for on the face of your scrip.

U. S. JURORS.—The following gentlemen from this section are summoned as U. S. trial jurors. They will appear in the U. S. Circuit Court, at Carson, on the morning of the 30th instant: Geo. Deremer, Peleg Brown, B. G. Clow, S. F. Hoole, J. S. Bowker, Wm. Duck, Wm. Hoffman, C. C. Powning.

Narrow Escape.

One of our Reno belles, a few days since, came near losing her life by swallowing a piece of cotton which was saturated with poison. She intended to put the cotton in an aching tooth, but a teasing friend was bothering her, and she placed it in her stomach instead. Her friends were very much frightened, of course, and administered mustard, salt water, blue mass, gargling oil, etc., while her—well, never mind—gentleman friend posted off, in frightened haste, for the nearest physician and a full sized stomach pump. When the good-looking young man returned with the cruel apparatus for the unceremonious work of disgorging her bread basket, he found that she yet lived, but felt quite empty internally. The many purgatives which she had swallowed had operated, and there was not the slightest trace of cotton or poison in her alimentary receptacle.

Variable.

The elements are hilarious and the clerk as changable in his moods as the jealous lover. Yesterday was a remarkably warm day, and in the evening the expectant zephyr carried far away the heated air. This morning the atmosphere was sultry and before 11 o'clock the wind turned cold and threatening, and squeezed a few drops of moisture from the upper regions. A new arrival, with a semi-hectic cough and the possessor of feeble, vital force and little energy grew quite despondent over the modicum of dust playfully carried along by sportive western wind, and fancies that in a few days he will lie with his fathers or else be found in another State. Reno life demands energy.

Thought She was Dying.

A young married lady residing on Commercial Row had a very strange and sudden attack yesterday afternoon, which she took to be death. No gentleman was present, but her husband was promptly sent for. Several lady friends drew around her deathbed, as they thought, and shed the usual amount of tears. Mrs. —— resolved that she was not ready to be transported, and would not leave her husband behind to fall a victim to the charms of some fair lady. Of course she then recovered but as singularly and suddenly, as the attack was very sudden. She enjoys good health to-day, and her husband—he is happy.

"JOSHUA WHITCOMB."—To those who can appreciate a first-class entertainment the following announcement will be received with real pleasure: On the evening of the 25th inst. Denman Thompson will be here and give his rendition of that famous drama, Joshua Whitcomb. We presume that his support will be good, but at all events in the character of "Uncle Joshua" Thompson is a host. A friend who has seen his personation of this character in San Francisco writes: "Don't fail to see him. Renoites have a rare treat in store, and should by all means attend Thompson's entertainment."

$200,000.—The Carson mint lately received an order from headquarters to send $50,000, in standard dollars, to the Assistant U. S. Treasurer, at New Orleans, $50,000 to a corresponding officer at St. Louis, and $100,000 in smaller amounts to different places. The amount to New Orleans was sent several days ago. Last night the $50,000 to St. Louis passed eastward and the remaining amounts will shortly be dispatched to their destined coffers. By the by, is it not time that these dollars should make their appearance in the riverside burg?

PRACTICE LINE.—M. T. Benham and James Woodward are extending a short telegraph line from the home of the latter gentleman to the Western Union telegraph office. This line will be completed to-day. It is about seven-eighths of a mile long, and is designed for practice in learning telegraphy.

OPPOSITION.—Since Tom Norcross has made out a programme for several races on the the Fourth of July, some jealous chaps at Carson are getting up a scrub race on their half mile track. Nothing like opposition if it is in a small way.

WOOL.—Wool is coming in very slowly. Manning & Duck have shipped only two car-loads this season. No wool has come in from the north. All that has yet reached this market has been shipped from points south of Reno.

WANTED.—Anyone having two good mules weighing about 8 hundred, broke to harness and suitable as pack animals, will find a patron by calling at this office.

MARKET REPORT.

In the two markets prices are much the same as last week. The San Francisco market is rather more active, although most of the produce articles have fallen. Of course this is occasioned by the increasing supplies of vegetables, etc. The crop of new potatoes comes in very slowly, and, in consequence, they are in demand at advanced quotations. There is a supply of dairy produce, but eggs and poultry are in demand. Wool is coming in slowly, but increasing in amount in both markets. It has fallen, however, 1@2c, notwithstanding the supply is light.

Trade still improves in both markets. Money is still close, but is becoming freer. All the leading banks, even in Sacramento, have a surplus of coin.

Hard Times and "Sunshine Niggers."

Uncle Remus and old man Plato, who are excellent specimens of the old time darkey, met at the passenger depot and compared notes.

"Dese is mighty hard times, Brer Remus."

"You're hoopin' new, honey; and deyer gittin' harder. De man dat gits a dollar dese days is got ter onlimber hiss'f sho's you bo'n. Ee's got to git roun' like he wuz at a camp-meetin' rastle."

"Dat's w'at I call knockin' at de frunt do'," said old Uncle Plato, by way of expressing his hearty assent.

"De time done come, Brer Plato," continued Uncle Remus, "w'en niggers ain't got none de 'vantage er po' w'ite folks. Some un um, I notis, kin sit in de sun an' git fat, but wid me hit's a scuffle and a scramble from day's eend ter day's eend, an' I'm monst'ous glad w'en night comes cf I got er slice er bacon rine fer ter grease my stummik wid."

"Some er dese yer niggers, Brer Remus, wat stan's roun' an, suns dey-se'f look like dat dey got rich kinfolks somewheres."

"No use fer ter bodder 'bout der kin folks, Brer Plato. Ef 'twa'nt for dese sunshine niggers de chain gang wouldn't be able fer ter dig a pos' hole. Hit 'ud be mighty nigh ez weak ez de toddy w'at Mars John mixes for de baby. Niggers don't fatten on no sunshine. "You're chewin guvunment terbacker now, Brer Remus," responded Uncle Plato, approvingly.—Atlanta, Georgia, Constitution.
